EXTRAORDINARY DISCOVERY .- We copy, verlatim, the following notice of a late French discovery from an English paper. Whether it is of any importance, or whether it is any discovery at ail, two to five pounds of the sait, dissolved in twice or three times its weight of water, is sufficient for an ox. Persons disposed to make experiments on the subject, need scarcely be reminded that the smaller natimals, such as rabits or cats, should be employed. Subjects for anatomical dissoction should also be prepared in this manner. Here is a new field opened for commerce of a most important description.

Thousands of oxen on the coast of Spanish America are slain for their skins only, the flesh being cast upon the dunghill; it may now be preserved and shipped for the West India market as a state of the sta served and shipped for the West India market as fresh meat. No ship in future need be provided with salt ment. The health of seamen on long voyages will be preserved, and the comfort of passengers in emigrant ships to Sydney will be materially improved by the application of this important discovery. The table of the Academie des Sciences, on the rending of M. Fannal's memoir, was covered with legs of mutton, fowls, et id genus onne, which had been preserved for many months by the new process. The chlorure of aluminum would be very cheap when made on a large scale for commercial purposes."

CURIOUS.—Some years since we noticed the circum-stance (communicated by a friend on the spot) of the discovery, in digging a well in Winton, N. C. (situated on a tolerable high bank of all, exerted surface of the ground, of a stump of a tree, and a quantity of fire coals and brick bats, supposed to be the remains of a "domestic hearth," or haply their sire, for the last time, is the great question for research and debate, with philosophers and of a recent communication from the same gentleor 50 yards from the first, and in the process of digging, at the depth of 25 feet, the laborers had in a stratum of swam a mud, beneath which, to the depth of six to eight feet was a stratum of blue a 3. New-Orleans 3 a 31. The Washington Bank, which yesterday gave up the ghost after a lingering existence of useless struggles, is said to have a circulation of only about $14,000. The se curities with the Comptroller are reported to be a bond and mortgage for $10,000 and State 5 per cent. Stock $7,000. The notes are probably worth about 75 cents on the dollar. We cannot learn that any broker is buying them. The doors of the Bank, if by courtesy it may be so called, were locked to-day, and we could obtain no positive information in relation to the prospects of the bill 17 We are informed that it is not true that the Washington Bank has been closed by injunction. The Bank was closed by a Clerk, in the absence of the Cashier from the City, the President Ising sick at the time. Our informant states that the Bank will be open and redeem its notes tomerrow.

The Pailadelphia Bank has been appointed to retail the Federal Six per cent. Lean in sums to suit purchasers.—Had the I'milious been offered in one lot, redeemable in twenty years, it might have been negotiated at a premium for a six per cent. stock, instead or being forced off at par. It would have gone to Europe and even in the present state of shaken confidence in Amprican securities, John Buill would have been glad to send us his sovereigns for a six per cent. Government Stock, and the drain for specie which has alarmed our Banks and capitalists would have been checked. Among capitalists the method adopted by the Secretary to dispose of this loan is considered to be a serious financial blunder.

In the case of the United States against the Bank of the United States, in a suit to recover $ 51243 34 retained by the Bank out of the declared dividends upon stock owned by the United States, and a first upon France some time store the whole amount. Recolved, That this meeting most heartily concur in the sommation made by the Democratic Wing Convention for Members of Assembly, and that we will, one and all, exert our best energies in support of that nomination.
Resolved, That the nomination of Daniel Lerd, Jr. and disturb the distribution of the Common School Fund asnow established, will be a sure guaranty to the friends of that system that its funds will remain involute; and the the meckanic interest may be assured that no efforts on on their part will be wanting to break down that remnant of Regency spoils, the 'Sane Prison Monopoly.'
